Blanket Order Training Program

BLANKET ORDERS

A Blanket Order agreement is a formal contract with a vendor that sets terms and conditions for procuring goods or services as defined in the contract.

A blanket order (or release) is a delivery order placed against a Blanket Order agreement

Blanket Order agreements are established:

- When repetitive purchases are made for specific items, services or categories of items from the same vendor over a period of time
- By Purchasing personnel in accordance with the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) and NCI contract requirements
- For the convenience of program areas to enable direct ordering
- To streamline the ordering process
- To receive a more favorable price and/or discount through volume commitments

Users

User/requester is authorized to place orders and request services

User/buyer is authorized to place orders, request services AND enter purchase order/release into SmartStream

Responsibilities

Note: the procurements are the same regardless of the procurement method, i.e. by purchase request, blanket order or purchase card.

- Selecting vendor:

Multiple Blanket Order agreements are established with several vendors for the same item or item category; for example, chemicals, enzymes, media, etc. When selecting a vendor, each user must determine if the item purchased from that particular vendor is the best value/most competitive, thus assuring competitiveness compliance. The determination may be based on price, availability, functionality, past experience, etc. Written documentation, while not required, may be helpful if questions arise as to why one vendor was selected over another.

Give preference to minority, small and women owned businesses. Refer to the blanket order list for vendor classification.

- Check the blanket order list and the blanket order comment section for the items or item categories that are allowable before placing order
- Adhere to all blanket order policies, procedures and guidelines

Blanket Order Training Program

- Assign the correct purchase order/release number when placing orders. Use the 3-digit user ID of the person who phoned in the order (not necessarily the requester)
- User/requesters must complete the Blanket Order Release Form and forward it to the User/buyer immediately after the order is placed.
- User/buyers must enter releases the same day the order is placed. Orders not in SmartStream cannot be received and delivered to the requestor.

Blanket Order Release Review

- Releases must be entered into SmartStream the same day the order is placed. Orders not in SmartStream cannot be received and delivered to the requestor
- Use correct purchase order/release number
- Always enter the release with the same purchase order number that was given to vendor at the time the order was placed, even if it is not correct
- Assign correct item number – refer to Item Number section for detailed descriptions
- Ensure that signature authority (the same as for purchase requests) exists for the center number that is being used on the release
- Releases must be entered by the line items ordered, not by one line for the total cost of all items ordered.
- Applicable freight, tax and miscellaneous charges such as dry ice are not to be entered on the release. These charges are to be entered as comments

Invoices

Vendors must send invoices to Accounts Payable. A few exceptions exist for some services, but the Blanket Order comments in Smartstream must indicate that the invoices can be sent to other than our Accounts Payable Department.

For invoices that should be sent to the program area, the program area must ensure the following occurs prior to sending to the Accounts Payable Department.

1. Time and Date Stamped
2. Approved with a legible signature by the person authorized on the center number
3. Blanket Order Release number appears on the invoice (highlight or add as necessary).

Requestors who receive invoice when they pick the printing services, courier services, etc. must provide blanket PO number, date, and sign invoice (the signature of the person authorized for the center number) and send to A/P immediately.

Should these Blanket Order procedures not be followed in a prudent manner, the blanket order privileges may be suspended until the issues are resolved. It may be necessary for the user/buyer to attend a Blanket Order training session again prior to having these privileges reinstated
